FINAL PLEAS TO PATERSON MURDER JURY.

McAlister Pointed at as the Leader and Kerr's Name Brought IN.

Prosecutor Tears the Testimony of the Three Defendants to Shreds in His Final Plea.

The defense made by McAlister, Death and Campbell, on trial at Paterson for the murder of Jennie Bosschieter, was torn to bieces by Prosecutor Emley in his final address to the jury this

"I have no thirst for blood," he cried, and then went on with fierce eloquence to demand a verdict of wilful murder. Hang these guilty men," he said in effect.

"I will convict them out of their own lying mouths. The lives of ten men could not atone for this damnable crime!" he cried.

For the first time Kerr's name was dragged into this trial, the Prosecutor declaring that he was in the plot against the girl.

FIERCE SUMMING UP BY THE STATE PROSECUTOR.

COURT HOUSE, Paterson, N. J., Jan. 18.

Prosecutor Emley in a deep sonorous voice, and with well rounded, well studied sentences, began the final sumwing up for the State. After a few words of introduction, he said with terrible emphasis, turning and facing the
